1. The SS Rio Diamante, which entered the military zone of the Rio Segundo port on 4 October, is said to have carried a shipment of one hundred light tanks, many of which were still fitted with turrets and guns, and a large number of jeeps and army trucks. The cargo, proceeding from Antwerp and consigned to the I.A.P.I. (Argentine Institute for the Promotion of Trade) reportedly was part of the Anglo-American expeditionary equipment used in the Normandy invasion.
2. Armed guards were quickly assigned to the ship. No unauthorized persons were permitted within 200 meters of the area.
